Statement on Washington Post reporting on the handling of audit findings and recommendations

WASHINGTON, DC — The USAID Office of Inspector General takes matters pertaining to its independence and credibility very seriously.

We have confidence in the integrity of our work, and in the OIG staff and managers responsible for undertaking it. We will continue to work with the Inspector General community, Members of Congress, and others to ensure that we address any concerns regarding our office.

The Office of Inspector General remains committed to providing independent oversight that promotes the efficiency, effectiveness, and integrity of foreign assistance programs and operations.
